MRS. LUCY FABRO PASSES

Word was received from Kimberley on Wednesday of the death of Mrs. Lucy Fabro, widow of the late Giuseppe Fabro, after but a very brief illness.

Mrs. Fabro was in her sixty-eighth year. She, with her husband, came to Alberta upwards of thirty years ago. For a number of years they resided in Lille, where Mr. Fabro conducted a bakery business, moving to Blairmore about 1912, establishing a home near McLaren's mill.

Since the passing of her husband in 1930, Mrs. Fabro has been residing with her son Bruno at Kimberley. She is survived by four sons, Alphonse, Bruno and Milo, at Kimberley, and Cyrus, in Blairmore; and one daughter, Frances (Mrs. Fisher), residing at Kimberley.

The remains will be brought to Blairmore by today's train, and will be taken in charge by Mr. Ferguson, of the Crows' Nest Undertaking Co. Funeral takes place tomorrow forenoon from the funeral chapel, and service will be held in St. Anne's church by Rev. Dean M. A. Harrington. The remains will be laid to rest in the family plot in St. Anne's cemetery.

MRS. GILLIS IS CALLED EAST

Telegram from Boston was received by Mrs. J. E. Gillis on Thursday morning, asking her presence at her mother's home in that city. No particulars were given, but it is understood her mother, who is well up in years, is quite ill.

Mrs. Gillis left by the afternoon train yesterday for Boston.

"THE TRAVELLER HATH RETURNED"

Charles Sartoris, proprietor of the Blairmore Motors Garage, Sartoris Lumber Company, etc., returned the early part of the week from Detroit, where he attended a great convention of Chrysler people. Mr. Sartoris had enough regard for Canadian railways to desert the bulk of western representatives at Lethbridge and travel to Detroit and back the Canadian way. Most of the delegates from west took the States' way for it. At Detroit, Mr. Sartoris had the pleasure of meeting and being entertained by R. W. "Tommy" Thomson and Bob Bartlett. Thomson will be well remembered locally, having about twenty-five years ago been on the office staff of the Canadian Coal Consolidated at Frank, later assuming charge of the warehouse of the Frank Wine and Spirit Co. Bartlett is also fairly well known in these parts, having for a time conducted a branch store in the premises now occupied by Safeway Stores for the Pioneer Furniture Co. (Cullie Brothers) of Macleod. He is a brother of ye editor, and with Clarence Lewis, left here about nineteen years ago for Prince George, making the trip from Ashcroft by packhorse train. After several years in the Prince George-Port George region, where they had as a pal the late Bob Kerr, brother of J. and W. Kerr, of Bellevue and Pasburg, Bartlett proceeded east to Detroit, where he has since resided. In the auto-famous city Mr. Sartoris met quite a number of old friends, including Mrs. Annie O'Hara, who is still holding the position of head waitress in one of the largest cafes in the city she accepted eleven years ago. Mr. Sartoris states that he thoroughly enjoyed the trip, though time in Detroit was made slightly unpleasant through continuous rains and silver thaws.

Mr. Aberhart says he thinks that Mr. Hargrave is an irresponsible person who has had some sincere motive in coming to our province. The Premier, who draws $8500, plus travelling expenses, should be able to recognize sincere motives when he encounters them.—Calgary Herald.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

Interest in the forthcoming municipal and school elections in Blairmore is once again reaching the boiling point. Up to the present, a miners' slate has been announced, and as we go to press we learn that an opposition slate is to be submitted for nomination on Monday next. For several years past the town, and practically the school district, have been run by what was understood to be the "workers" of the Mine Workers' Union of Canada, an organization very closely allied with Communism. As that element has been looked upon as weakening, particularly since the somewhat backward step taken by the mayor, it appears to the average ratepayer who has no such thing as Communism, Fascism, etc., at heart, that the time is opportune for a change, and if the ratepayers as a whole are really desirous of such change, now is their opportunity.

For the last three or four elections, contests have been keenly fought. For instance, in February, 1933, the present mayor, William Knight, won out by the narrow margin of 23—Knight 403, Ferguson 380; while for council in 1934, W. L. Evans, P. C. Montabetti, E. Morgan, D. Oliver, J. Packer and A. Pagnone polled an average of 35%, with 430 at the top and 298 consolation. For school trustees the same time, J. Krkosky, junior, S. McDowell, R. Oakes, O. M. Olson, S. Patterson and C. Sartoris polled an average vote of 489, with 520 for the leader and 428 tie for the pit.

There is every indication that this year's contest is to be equally as keen.

JOBBERS ARE MET AT BELLEVUE SATURDAY

Relief Commissioner A. A. Mackenzie, representing the provincial government, and E. O. Duke, M.L.A., Rocky Mountain, with Staff-Sergeant J. A. Cawsey, R.C.M.P. Police, heard statements on Saturday from single unemployed of the Crows' Nest Pass towns, who have made protests over not being employed in relief camps recently opened at Summit and Bellevue. These camps have been manned mostly by men from Calgary, transient men who were being cared for in the city.

The meeting was held in Bellevue, representatives of Social Credit groups being present. Principal McLean, of the Bellevue school, zone president, and Rev. R. Upton, acted as chairman and secretary. R. Wootton, of Blairmore, was present, representing the U.M.W. of A.

Mr. Mackenzie stated these camps were financed on a 50-50 basis of cost by the federal and provincial governments, the former laying down the rules and restricting the work to inter-provincial highways. He stated that parents of single unemployed, whose homes were here, must assume a share of responsibility, and warned them that they would not be given relief if they went to Calgary. The line had to drawn against mounting relief costs.

The single unemployed suggested that work be provided by cutting forestry trails and eliminating fire hazards, which would result in saving of thousands of dollars' worth of timber. The commissioner replied that the provincial government had not the funds to embark on such work. They also suggested that allowances be made for food and shelter on the same basis of cost of men in camps. The meeting was quite orderly, about fifteen being present.

Commissioner Mackenzie emphatically stated that in view of the federal government's scaling down of relief appropriations, nothing further could be promised as an alternative to the present regulations governing relief.

Newfoundland and Nova Scotia are still thanking California for swapping winters. California is experiencing a little of the old-time Maritime Province weather, while the seacoast province and the oldest colony are enjoying a whole lot of what California had become noted for. In fact, some of the oldtimers in the Annapolis Valley are looking forward to bumper orange crops next season.

Had Mr. Aberhart told the farmers of Alberta prior to August 22, 1935, that one of the requirements for putting Social Credit into effect in the province would be that producers of wheat, sugar, dairy and poultry products, bacon, beef and other farm commodities would have to sell their products through a government organization, the government setting the price (and not in Canadian dollars, either), we wonder how many votes he would have received from that source.—Lethbridge Herald.

SAYS EASY MONEY POLICY IS THE BEST FOR CANADA

Ottawa.—Although the Dominion government is convinced "an easy money policy" is best for Canada, it is opposed to inflation as certain to bring ruin and misery.

Hon. Charles Dunning, minister of finance, made this clear in the House of Commons as two resolutions from the Social Credit group were defeated without recorded votes. One proposed a government issue of purchasing power and the other a nationwide scheme for financing consumption.

"From the domestic point of view parliament has entrusted to the Bank of Canada the function of regulating currency and credit in the public interest," said Mr. Dunning. "Obviously information regarding the day-to-day discharge of this function cannot be given but results show clearly the broad line of policy which has been followed by the bank."

"I think it can be said with safety that to-day lower interest rates for credit-worthy borrowers, individual, corporate, municipal, provincial and Dominion, prevail in Canada than ever before in Canada's history."

"And I submit that an easy money policy is the best policy for Canada at the present time, however unpopular it may be to those who have money to lend."

"But our testing-time will come whenever, by means of a too high price level, including wild speculation in commodities, stocks etc., it becomes desirable in the public interest for the Bank of Canada to exercise the credit control powers conferred upon it by parliament to check this tendency. That I say will be the testing time."

The first Social Credit resolution, proposed by John Blackmore, leader of the group, provoked a two-day debate and picked up the support of the whole Co-operative Commonwealth Federation group and two Liberals, W. A. Tucker of Rotherham and T. J. O'Neill of Kamloops.

It was: "That the Canadian government should consider the advisability of beginning this year to issue purchasing power and to use that purchasing power for the improvement of the economic condition of the Canadian people."

The other one, sponsored by Victor Quetch (S.C., Acadia), drew no speakers apart from the mover. It declared: "The time has arrived in Canada for the adoption of a definite, scientific, nationwide scheme for financing consumption."

Conservative Leader Bennett joined with Mr. Dunning and Hon. N. McLeod Rogers, minister of labor, in opposing the first resolution but said it was not surprising some Liberal members supported it. Before the last election leaders in the Liberal party such as Hon. Ian MacKenzie, minister of national defence, were urging the very doctrine set forth by Mr. Blackmore in his resolution, he declared.

Support For Civil Aviation

Appropriation Increased For Airports, Airways And Other Activities

Ottawa.—New support for civil aviation is being provided by the government. The 1937-38 estimate for maintaining and operating airways, airports and associated activities is $1,222,917.

This appropriation, made public when the estimates were tabled, is $481,610 higher than that for the current fiscal year.

While the estimate for maintenance and operation is up, that for construction is down from $897,650 to $761,355. The program of building has advanced to a point where less money is needed for that purpose, transport department officials explained.

Meanwhile the government is getting inquiries respecting proposed contributions to municipalities which intend improving their airports or have already done so. Under a recent order-in-council the government is empowered to contribute one-third of the cost to such municipalities, provided they are on the trans-Canada airway to be inaugurated next summer.

Quebec Minister Visiting West Montreal.—Discussions of rural problems between Hon. B. Dussault, Quebec minister of agriculture, and the ministers in western provinces, are planned during a tour which Mr. Dussault is making. The minister said he would spend three weeks in British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

A Temporary Measure

Japan's Control Of Foreign Exchange Considered Emergency Move

Ottawa.—Assumption of control of foreign exchange by the Japanese government is a temporary measure and will not permanently impair trade with Canada, trade experts believe.

Canadian exports to Japan have apparently been held up with those of other countries since the Tokyo government cut off the supply of foreign exchange, although no definite reports have yet been received by the trade and commerce department or the department of external affairs here.

"The view here is the new system of exchange control put into effect recently is an emergency move."

As it is regarded as a matter of internal Japanese economy, officials here said no representations would likely be made by the Canadian government if all countries are treated the same way.

There appeared to be nothing in the trade arrangements effected a month ago between Canada and Japan that had a bearing on the matter, officials said.

Cabinet Changes

Two Portfolios Change Hands In Alberta Government

Edmonton.—Alberta's government underwent reorganization when two portfolios changed hands. Hon. Lucien Maynard was sworn in as minister of municipal affairs in charge of relief and Dr. W. W. Cross as minister of trade and industry.

The 28-year-old Mr. Maynard, second youngest cabinet member in the British empire, was appointed a minister without portfolio last May to supervise Social Credit plans. He takes the ministry of municipal affairs from Provincial Treasurer Charles Cockcroft who had held that portfolio since the government was formed.

Dr. Cross, acting minister of trade and industry since mid-November when Provincial Secretary E. C. Manning took indefinite leave of absence because of ill health, will remain in charge of the department of health.

The ministers were sworn in by Chief Justice Harvey, administrator of the province. Premier William Aberhart and R. A. Andison, clerk of the executive council, witnessed the ceremony.

Would Appoint Commission

Urges Probe Into Financial Difficulties Of Western Provinces

Ottawa.—Appointment of a royal commission to probe the financial difficulties of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta was urged on the senate by Hon. John T. Haig (Con., Winnipeg), in the debate on the address in reply to the throne speech. This step was necessary to save the credit of the prairie provinces and relieve injury to Canada's financial standing. New homes constructed to relieve unemployment should be free from municipal taxation, Senator Haig submitted.

Loan companies and financial institutions were being driven out of the west by the radical legislation enacted by these provincial legislatures, Senator L. S. McLean, another Conservative member from Winnipeg, asserted. "Many of the difficulties of the western provinces are due to the provinces themselves," he stated.

Group Will Be Smaller

Fewer Men In Military Contingent Going To Coronation

Ottawa.—A Canadian contingent representing all the different arms in the military service will go to the coronation in May but in smaller numbers than in 1911, the department of national defence said.

The number has not been decided definitely, officials said, but was thought not likely to exceed 300.

The Canadian government will pay the expenses this year and the appropriation is $197,000.

Admitted To Bar

Hon. C. P. Fullerton Called To The Bar Of Ontario

Toronto.—Hon. C. P. Fullerton, former chairman of the board of railway commissioners and until recently chairman of the board of directors of the Canadian National Railways, was called to the bar of Ontario at the convocation of the benchers of the law society of Upper Canada.

Mr. Fullerton, a native of Amherst, N.S., is a former justice of the Manitoba court of appeals and a member of the bar of Manitoba and Nova Scotia. He is at present residing in Montreal.

NEED A REVISION OF COST OF LIVING INDEX METHODS

Ottawa.—Survey and revision of the "theoretical and impractical" methods used in compiling the living cost index published by the labor department and frequently referred to in wage disputes was urged upon the Dominion government by the International railroad brotherhoods.

In the recent hearings before the conciliation board, whose report is expected soon, it was claimed representatives of the employees had been placed at a considerable disadvantage by being confronted with "unreliable statistics compiled from methods antiquated methods," which did not reflect actual conditions and so could not be a reliable basis for wage adjustments.

The Canadian cost of living indices are merely estimates and not founded on comprehensive budgetary studies, the committee claimed. Recent, detailed statistics of consumption habits of the workers are lacking; instead, estimates are made, based on fragmentary and often out-of-date budget investigations.

The annual submission of legislative proposals by the railroad men was made to Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice, Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of transport, and Hon. Norman Rogers, minister of labor, the latter minister being occupied with a government caucus.

Many of their recommendations were admittedly reiterations of proposals put forward in former years. Amendments of the British North America Act so that Canada could change her own constitution; state health insurance; legislative protection of the workers' right to organize; opposition to the development of the St. Lawrence waterway for transportation purposes; regulation of motor vehicle transport by a transport commission similar to the railway commission.

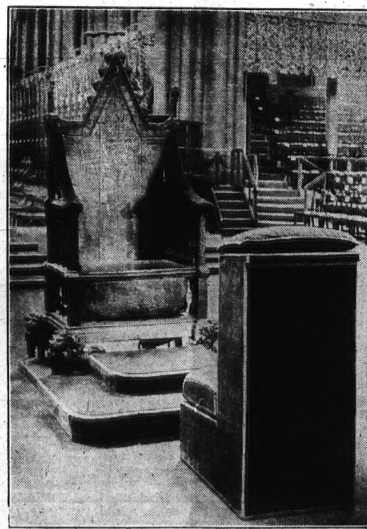

Compendium was expressed for the government's efforts to solve unemployment. Many existing inequalities, they suggested, could be more easily adjusted if Canadian workers were "privileged, without fear of intimidation, to organize for their own common good and their right to do so was adequately protected," by legislation.

Proposed amendments to the railway act include a recommendation that $500,000 per year rather than the present $200,000, be provided for the elimination of grade crossings, and a recommendation that two men be required on all motive powered machines.

Should Improve Quality

London.—The dominions and Argentina should reduce their livestock production, producing less meat and improving the quality for better prices, as a solution to problems of the world meat trade, the Marquess of Fitzfield (Conservative), declared in the House of Commons.

ANCIENT CORONATION CHAIR READY FOR CEREMONIES

Those Canadians who have visited Westminster Abbey will undoubtedly have seen the Coronation Chair, upon which all British monarchs are crowned, but it is doubtful whether they have ever seen it in the position shown above. No longer guarded by railings, the chair is shown as it will stand in the Coronation Theatre of the Abbey ready for use when their Majesties the King and Queen are crowned.

WARNS OF WAR

Speaking in London recently, Field Marshal Lord Milne, intimated that he would not be surprised if a war raged in Europe within the next five months.

Europe In Icy Grip

Weeks In Gale-Lashed Seas Cause Many Deaths

London.—Winter, tightening an icy grip over Europe, left many villages snowbound and was believed the cause of at least 51 deaths in gale-lashed seas.

Twenty-five persons drowned when a German ship sank in a Baltic blizzard. Twenty others were lost in the wreck of the Finnish steamship Savanna off Norway's southern coast. Two French fishing boats were reported foundering with loss of six men.

Snow storms swept Scandinavia, most of Germany, eastern France and northern England. Huge waves pounded the coast of Britain and France along the English channel and the Atlantic.

The 2,285-ton Russian steamship Ilmen wirelessless was drifting near the Shetland Islands, her rudder gone. A salvage ship put out to help her.

The Norwegian mailboat Venus sailed 19 men from the Norwegian freighter Tryn in the North Sea and started for Newcastle.

Passengers from a British mail ship who disembarked at Esbjerg, on the west coast of Denmark, to go by train to Copenhagen, on the east coast, had to return to Esbjerg, after spending the night on the train among snowdrifts.

Farm Loans

3,979 Loans Made To Farmers Under Farm Loan Act

Ottawa.—For the nine months of the current fiscal year, from April 1 to Dec. 31, 1936, 3,979 loans were made to farmers under the farm loan act, Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, told the House of Commons. This involved a total of $8,327,599, in actual disbursements.

Loans and disbursements in that period in the western provinces followed: Saskatchewan, 999 ($2,203,619); Alberta, 377 ($820,343); and British Columbia, 63 ($104,573).

To Combat Influenza

Doctor Advises Best Thing Is To Build Up Resistance

Toronto.—Changes in weather set neither favorably nor adversely on influenza, says Dr. John T. Phair of the Ontario department of health. "There is no foundation for the presumption that cold weather checks the spread of influenza and the germ is not lying around on slushy pavements," he said. "The disadvantage of wet feet is offset by exposure in extra cold weather."

"The important thing is devising some scheme of raising resistance to the disease," he said. "The germ is in the nose and throat of a carrier or patient, and is passed on to some exposed individual, usually by a cough."

Outbreaks of influenza were reported most in most districts. Most cases were of a mild nature. The death toll for the province stood at seven, five of which were in Toronto.

ROOSEVELT WOULD REMOVE CAUSES OF INJUSTICE

Washington.—President Franklin D. Roosevelt dedicated himself anew to the start of his second administration to removal of "cancers of injustice" that cause want in the midst of plenty.

As he did four years ago, Mr. Roosevelt repeated the oath in full. His head bobbing with the rhythm of the phrases, he weighed each word with obvious care and raised his voice perceptibly at the pledge to "support and defend the constitution." The word "defence" he accented heavily.

Then he turned to the dripping crowd before him and with no more ado launched upon his address. "We will carry on!" he cried exultantly. Properly, he is, tempting the nation to forget further progress.

"I see millions of families trying to live on income so meagre that the pall of family disaster hangs over them day by day."

"I see millions whose daily lives in city and on farm continue under conditions labelled indecent by a so-called polite society half a century ago."

"I see millions denied education, recreation and the opportunity to better their lot and the lot of their children."

"I see millions lacking the means to buy the products of farm and factory and by their poverty denying work and productiveness to many other millions."

"I see one-third of a nation ill-housed, ill-clad, ill-nourished."

"It is not in despair that I paint you that picture. I paint it for you in hope—because the nation, seeing and understanding the injustice in it, proposes to paint it out."

In conclusion, the president vowed: "In taking again the oath of office as president of the United States, I assume the solemn obligation of leading the American people forward along the road over which they have chosen to advance."

"While this duty rests upon me I shall do my utmost to speak their purpose and to do their will, seeking divine guidance to help us each and every one to give light to them that sit in darkness and to guide our feet into the way of peace."

Progress in recovery is obvious, the president said, but the "new order of things" brought about since 1933 means more than that.

Mr. Roosevelt said the greatest change in recent eventful years was "the change in the moral climate of America."

"With this change in our moral climate and our rediscovered ability to improve our economic order," he observed, "we have set our feet upon the road of enduring progress."

"In these last four years," Mr. Roosevelt said, "we have made the exercise of all power more democratic; for we have begun to bring private autocratic powers in their proper subordination to the public's government."

"The legend that they were invincible—above and beyond the processes of democracy—has been shattered. They have been challenged and beaten."

Mentioning the democratic process at another point, he made this assertion which occasioned some speculation as to whether he had the courts in mind:

"The essential democracy of our nation and the safety of our people depend not upon the absence of power but upon lodging it with those whom the people can change, or continue at stated intervals, through an honest and free system of elections. The constitution of 1787 did not make our democracy impotent."

BANK OPERATIONS AND WHEAT SALES IN ARGENTINA

Winnipeg.—Scouting a cause for rapid movement of Argentina wheat below Canadian price levels, counsel at the Turgon royal grain commission sought effects of international banking operations when linked with marketing of Argentina's crop.

Mr. M. M. Porter, K.C., Calgary, counsel for the Alberta wheat pool, disclosed his information showed companies in both the banking and wheat exporting business established a price through dual operations that made it advisable for Canada to determine the exact situation.

The commission also heard from Sidney T. Smith, president of the Alliance Grain Company, Limited, that speculative interest in the Winnipeg Grain Exchange futures market was increasing. Questioned on reports of United States banking interests loaning money to terminal elevator companies at lower rates than Canadian banks, Mr. Smith said his company had considered such loans but decided against them.

Terminating discussion on the operations of dual banking and wheat exporting companies in Argentina, Mr. Justice W. F. A. Turgon suggested Mr. Porter and Hon. J. L. Ralston, Montreal, commission counsel, confer on the question and determine what evidence could be produced.

Outlining the situation to Mr. Smith, Mr. Porter said the dual companies extended credits to merchants who in turn extended the credit to farmers. His point, said Mr. Porter, was that the linking of banking with marketing complicated the rapid movement of the crop on world markets.

Mr. Smith said he had heard such an operation was carried out in Argentina but that he had not definite information.

Would Canada do to meet competition developing from the situation? asked Mr. Porter.

The only thing Canada could do so far as he knew, said Mr. Smith, was to get the best price it could for its wheat and meet the competition. When the dual companies make on currency exchange did not come into the calculations of Canadian exporters, he said. He doubted if anyone could learn details of the dual operation.

Speculation on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange had increased greatly in the past year said Mr. Smith, examined by M. A. MacPherson, Regina, counsel for the Saskatchewan wheat pool.

Speculative interest was almost essential to the open market and futures method of trading, said Mr. Smith. There was more general buying of wheat futures by the general public than a year ago, he estimated.

Canadian Bluejackets

En Route To England To Bring Back Two Destroyers

Ottawa.—Two officers and 119 ratings from the naval base at Esquimaux are en route to Halifax, their eventual destination England. At the Nova Scotian port they will join a similar draft of 1,000 men and the navy will sail on S.S. Montclare for Liverpool.

The Canadian bluejackets are assigned to the duty of bringing to Canada the two recently-purchased destroyers, H.M.C.S. Fraser and H.M.C.S. St. Laurent.

Asks Work For Wages Policy

Ottawa.—Discontinuance of unemployment relief and substitution of a "work for wages" policy is urged in a resolution in the name of Dr. T. F. Donnelly (Lib., Wood Mountain) on votes and proceedings. Direct relief, says Dr. Donnelly, is demoralizing the people who receive it, increasing poverty and extending the period of depression.

Health Bill Set Over

Toronto.—Ontario government will not introduce health insurance legislation this session, Acting Premier Harry Nixon said. Hon. David Croll, minister of welfare, has been studying insurance and has conferred with British Columbia officials, that province having a health insurance scheme in operation.

W. J. BARTLETT, PUBLISHER

Blairmore, Alta., Fri., Jan. 29, 1937

We have not seen a copy of the financial statement of the Town of Blairmore and Blairmore School District 628 for the fiscal year of 1936. We understand it was turned out in mimeograph form, and, judging from what we have heard of it (including the fact that many refused to try to read it, but instead consigned it to the stove or furnace), could we have been favored with a copy of the auditor's original report, in the interest of the ratepayers as a whole we would have published same in proper legal, readable and understandable form free gratis in The Enterprise. We have not heard a solitary word commending the workmanship of the statement as turned out and distributed to but a percentage of the ratepayers. Further, we have a number of names on our subscription list of Blairmore property owners and taxpayers who are residing in other parts of Canada, Europe and the United States. They are all entitled to see the town's financial statement, but we doubt if any of them will. Is that fair?

One of Alberta's oddest transport jobs was completed when a truck carried another truck from Camrose to Coleman, a distance of 375 miles. The cargo was a popcorn vending vehicle—a complete retail business in itself. The truck was old in service and judged incapable of making the journey under its own power.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

In striking contrast to the hole and corner Social Credit convention was that of the U.F.A. Around the press table sat reporters from every daily newspaper in the province, as well as some from middle and Eastern Canada. Prominent among them was the reporter of the Morning Albertan, the official organ of the Alberta government, which denied the press of the country the right to be present at the Social Credit convention recently held at Edmonton. Nor was this a new departure of the U.F.A. When for 14 years the government of this province bore the name of that organization, the press was present at every convention. There may have been errors in the reports. Sometimes they may even have been willful errors. At all times there was severe adverse criticism by the daily press. But the U.F.A. organization took it all in its stride. It was first and foremost a liberty-loving and democratic institution. It made allowances for errors and knew that for an organization like itself in a democratic country, criticism was both necessary and welcome.

In sharp contrast to this tolerant and altogether commendable attitude, the political party at present in power in this province shuts out the press from its annual convention and a mere handful of them, behind closed doors, decide in secret on far-reaching public policies. This is not only the spirit of fascism, but it is the fruits of fascist practice.

The fact that the U.F.A. has always recognized the freedom of the press gives force to the resolution to that effect which it passed by a standing vote unanimously.—The Pacific Weekly.

A quiet and interesting wedding took place at Michel recently, when Miss Violet Beatty, of Natal, formerly of Pincher Creek, became the wife of Mr. John Press, of Natal. Rev. Father Craig performed the ceremony at St. Michael's church. The young couple will make their home in Natal. The bride, up to the time of her marriage, was bookkeeper at Cook's Quality Meat Market, Natal.

"Bring 'Em Back Alive"

Hunting with the camera offers many a thrill. This trophy was "shot" against the light of a clouded sun on superlative film.

MANY experienced sportsmen who can't be accused of being "softies" have been giving attention of late to hunting and fishing photography. They are trying to get on film, for permanent record and lasting enjoyment, flashes of outdoor drama that stamp themselves on their memories but which never can be adequately pictured in words.

These sportsmen realize that, unless one is a dramatic story teller, recounting how the buck deer leaped the windfall or how the big trout jumped and took the lure that got caught in the alder, does not always "get over"; but, to be able to show one's friends an actual picture of such a happening, all that is not only convincing but a much greater satisfaction. Moreover, camera using sportsmen are taking as much pride in their picture trophies as in having actually shot the game or caught the fish, and rightly so, after discovering that to capture wild life with a camera requires as much skill, alertness, and quick thinking as with rod or gun.

The advent of the vest pocket and miniature-type cameras, together with modern fast film, is principally responsible for adding this new zest to the sport of hunting and fishing; indeed, for actually creating a new outdoor sport, because many now hunt equipped with a camera only. In the first place, these cameras are light, small and convenient to carry. Some of them weighing scarcely more than a couple of loaded shotgun shells. Secondly, the miniature-type is available with ultra fast lenses and shutter speeds, so that the jumping fish or the running animal may be "stopped" on the film without much chance of showing a blur. And it is especially these action shots of wild game in native haunts and lairs that the sportsman-cameras delight in bringing home. It is almost like "bringing 'em back alive."

Don't suppose, however, that he is able to obtain such pictures with the ease that he snaps the gang around the campfire, or Bill and Joe in the duck stand, or the quiet scenery of lake, mountain or wood. Just as he becomes thoroughly familiar with the operation of his gun and fishing tackle, and practices target shooting and fly casting, so he thoroughly understands his camera and practices using it. He must always be ready for the unforeseen opportunity and acquire dexterity in adjusting focus, stop openings and shutter speeds to the conditions of the moment. Here is the advice of one successful camera hunter:

"Always keep the camera loaded and make a practice of leaving the shutter set at 1/50 second at f8. This will come nearer being right more times than any other combination for the hurried snapshot. Watch the light conditions as the day wears on and make adjustments accordingly. When the big moment comes, as it will eventually—when the buck comes crashing out into the open and gallops by you, not a hundred feet away—when the big trout has struck and has begun his fight on your pal's line—keep cool, brother, and think quick. You should probably change to 1/200 at f4.5 (two motions), but, if you don't keep cool, likely as not you will slide the diaphragm pointer in the other direction and set the shutter for 'time.' Buck fever is as fatal to your chances with a camera as it is with a gun."

JOHN VAN GUILDER.

It must be terribly disappointing to a competent and painstaking chartered accountant and auditor to see all his hardwork hushed up in a form that can scarcely be understood intelligently.

Furs valued at $2,000 were stolen from the warehouse of M. Fefferman at Lethbridge early Sunday morning. Fefferman offers a $100 reward for information leading to the recovery of the stolen goods and arrest and conviction of the thief.

Here's how a typographical error can change the sense of an item: The motorist ran into a live wife, blew the lights of his car, then sped away."

A man who gave himself up to the police in Ontario, claiming he had stolen one dollar and two cents from a weekly newspaper proprietor, was proven to be a liar, and for that offence was given seventeen years at hard labor. He should get ten years extra for ever suggesting that an editor had ten cents.

ALBERTANS ALWAYS PROGRESSIVE, SAYS INVESTMENT CHIEF

EDMONTON, Jan. 15. — "No one doubts for a moment that the vast majority of Alberta people are honest. Evidence of that is found in the fact—I am informed on the most reliable authority—that hundreds are disregarding entirely the recent deduction laws if they are able to pay," J. A. Kingmill, permanent secretary of the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada, Toronto, stated during a brief visit here.

Asked to express an opinion on the present situation, Mr. Kingmill added seriously: "The people of this province must be the judges of their own government. . . . They have always shown, themselves to be progressive in political matters, and we have no doubt motivated into the present situation by a sincere desire to better their positions."

Mr. Kingmill added that he hoped disillusionment, which was certain to follow the failure to pay dividends as promised by Mr. Aberhart (within 18 months after his election August 22, 1935), would not detract sound judgment.

"The people of this province," he warned, "may yet face more serious problems than they now believe possible. When that time comes, clear thinking, intellectual honesty and a minimum of shaken pride will be essential if they are to protect that which has taken years to build in their own province."

"I am quite confident they, as always, will be equal to the task," he concluded.

Tom Scott and W. Alex. Burns, two of Pincher Creek's well known and highly respected old timers, attained and celebrated their 71st birthdays on "Rabbie Burns" anniversary, January the 25th.

In his service last Sunday Premier Aberhart said: "Surely this government should be given at least two years before bitter criticism is declared against it." Probably it will take that long to invent the proper kind of a fountain pen that we heard so much about during the election. —Redcliff Review.

The proprietors of four Chinese gaming houses in Calgary were caused to appear before Magistrate Sinclair, and help the court's treasury out to the extent of $25 and costs each. The name of one of the quartette was at one time quite familiar in Blairmore. About thirty inmates, including one woman, were also haled before the magistrate. All were given three months' suspended sentence.

Good Photographs Are Worth Taking Care Of

Pictures like this you don't want to lose. The place for them is in an album.

POSSESSING the picture, turning it to repeatedly and showing it to friends are the chief delights of photography. Making the exposure is, to be sure, exciting. But the process is momentary whereas the product lasts.

Each print is proof of your handwork with a camera, plus a graphic reminder of some incident that thrilled you, occasion that you enjoyed, or place that you visited, plus an expression of what you saw in the subject at the time. Thus a picture can furnish permanent pleasure, a pleasure that may be shared with other people.

To be fully enjoyed, however, pictures must be treated like the valuable possessions that they really are. Soiled or broken prints, astray in boxes and drawers, can hardly be a source of pride to their owner. They deserve proper care. Are your photographs a reproach to you in this respect? Here comes a dare!

Give yourself a photographic evening, devoted to organizing your pictures into a collection that you may be proud to show. Assemble all your old negatives and pick out those for which prints are lacking. Some of the best may be missing. Almost everyone gives prints away and a collection that is planned without consulting old negatives is likely to be short of many fine specimens.

With your complete lot of pictures before you, classify them by topics or dates and put them into an album. Put them into an album—that's the remedy. There they will be safe from such sufferings as broken edges, curled corners, thumb marks and other afflictions which rage among prints that do not get proper care. Then you'll have your pictures in such shape that you can find them without delay—and give your friends a peek now and then without apology.

MEDITATION

Did you ever sit and ponder
In a reminiscent way,
O'er the ones you've made unhappy
As you journeyed day by day?
And at night when darkness gathers
Seen the misty shadows form
Of the ones who would be happy
Had you helped them through their storm?
Have you ever felt the burden
Of a sad, remorseful heart,
O'er the ones you failed to gladden
When you failed to do your part?
Have the haunting, broken shadows
Flitting o'er your mental screen
Disturbed you with the knowledge
That they never need have been?
And when your days grow shorter,
When dusk displaces light
Shall you not regret the chances
That you failed to handle right?
Will the joy you might have given,
And the loving, kindly deed
You might have done (but didn't),
Help you in that hour of need?
Ah! our days at best are fleeting
With but little love or peace;
And our journey but a brief one
Till Death's bugle bids us cease.
So then, if our evening shadows
Are to glow with warmth and light
We must strive to make those happy
That we stand with in the light.
Let us joy and peace and gladness
To our fellow-travellers give
That our evening glow no sadness,
And in loving, let us live!
—J. Lester Williams.

A Scotchman and an American struck up acquaintance in a hotel lounge in the West End. After the former had had several drinks at the American's expense, he said to him: "Well, will you have a drink with me?"

"Sure," replied the other, blandly. "I guess I'll have a glass of champagne."

For an instant the Scot was staggered.

"Aye, well, you can guess again," he said at last. "And guess nearer sappiness."

Good Faith—and a Good Name!

Money—the financial resources of small investors—was loaned Alberta in good faith, and at a time when the province needed help. Shall we break faith with these, our fellow-citizens? Shall we not rather preserve our good name by being "square shooters"? Shall we not rather build up than break down the integrity and honesty which are, without doubt, the best policy?

Alberta is a great province, with wonderful natural resources. The development of these resources offers a bright future. This outlook has been hampered by ill-conceived legislation aimed to "soak the rich," but which in reality hurts the little fellows.

A prominent Canadian, who, by the way, is a successful Western farmer, declared that the drastic steps recently taken by the Alberta Government had, quite naturally, destroyed public and, to a certain extent, private credit; but he felt that the native common sense and judgment of the vast majority of Albertans would assert itself because they know that financial integrity and financial honesty are always the best policy.

This statement is one of a series written by The Mortgage Loans Association of the Province of Alberta. The Association is composed of 34 member companies. It represents hundreds of thousands of small investments by typical Canadians. Its loans to citizens of Alberta amount to some forty-five million dollars.

(The sixth statement in this series will be published in two weeks)

JASPER WEEPS AS "GOOD OLD TUBBY" LOSES LAST BATTLE

Jasper, Alberta, Jan. 25.—"Old Tubby" was for years leader of all the deer in Jasper, Alberta; friend of native and tourist alike, for he soon got to know when a visitor was in town. Stern ruler, ready to fight any member of his herd who showed the least sign of rebellion, "Old Tubby" his bones beginning to creak, was thoroughly beaten in a bitter two-hour battle with a young buck and so terribly wounded that a park warden reluctantly put him out of his misery. Tough but gentle; kind, muzzling, neighborly "Old Tubby" was gone and all Jasper was sunk in sorrow.

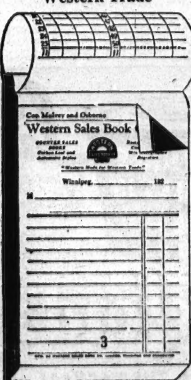

Everybody's business was the old buck's business. He walked into Jasper yards just as boldly as if he was the landlord... only he was so much more welcome. If there was a visitor there, "Old Tubby" waited around for the camera to be produced, mechanically did his duty as a good citizen by posing with the thrilled stranger, accepted delectables for his spoiled digestive tract and rambled rather and yon to see what he could see. And there was little "Old Tubby" missed. He walked majestically along roads, ignored automobiles because he knew they always stopped so that the occupants could admire his stately antlered head; let small children pet him and gazed on all the world with his soft brown eyes.

But the young buck didn't believe "Old Tubby" could always be king and the young buck, confident in his strength, was right.

He met "Old Tubby" down behind the railways shops along the river bank one afternoon and he didn't get out of Old Tubby's way. Instead the young buck charged on his old leader, ripped and tore at him, threw him right over his head once with a mighty toss of his antlers.

"Old Tubby" hung on for two hours.

Then he limped slowly away and lay down to die. But he didn't die right then. The old warrior regained some of his strength after a while and lurched drunkenly away from scene of his defeat to the hospital grounds. It wasn't a coincidence, got to know when a visitor was in town. Stern ruler, ready to fight any member of his herd who showed the least sign of rebellion, "Old Tubby" his bones beginning to creak, was thoroughly beaten in a bitter two-hour battle with a young buck and so terribly wounded that a park warden reluctantly put him out of his misery.

Tough but gentle; kind, muzzling, neighborly "Old Tubby" was gone and all Jasper was sunk in sorrow.

When Mr. Aberhart asks for time, probably he deserves it.

Questions on Lighting

Here is bad and good lighting. At the left the light strikes almost directly on the front of the subject. Shadow contrasts are too harsh and the young lady's "crowning glory" is almost lost in the dark background. Notice the difference in the other picture where the light strikes from the side.

TAKING proper exposure for granted, right lighting, whether it be daylight or artificial, is the principal quality which distinguishes the photographic work of art from the ordinary haphazard snapshot. How much attention do we, as amateurs, really pay to how light illuminates our subject when we aim our camera?

Suppose we are photographing a person, do we take the pains to avoid harsh front lighting, which makes our subject against and casts deep shadows into eyes and from the nose. This usually happens when the sun is high and directly strikes the front of the subject. Especially in the case of a close-up the shadows that delineate the features are likely to be unpleasantly harsh.

Do we seek to discover the light angles that are most pleasing? Usually light coming from the side or a bit from behind the subject makes a better picture.

Do we observe the tone of the principal object of interest? If the object is dark do we note whether it is in such deep shadow that it is in danger of merging with the background when the negative is developed and the print made?

Do we notice whether a light colored subject is in a full glare of light without a dark background behind it to set it off? Sometimes a background that seems to be dark may not prove effective because of unobserved light reflections such as from the surface of water.

Some of the most famous photographers stress the intelligent use of light to an almost unbelievable degree. When working with artificial light, they may use thousands of watts on such a seemingly easily photographed subject as a basket of eggs. They carefully study the effects of variations in light intensity, how they affect sharpness of shadow outline, shadow density, shadow gradations. They experiment with these effects, shifting camera, lights, or the subject itself, and decreasing or increasing the volume of illumination. They want to show you a picture of that basket of eggs that is realistic enough to tempt you to reach your hand into the basket and pick one up, and by controlling the lighting, they succeed in doing just about that very thing.

We, too, as amateurs, can immensely improve the quality of our pictures if we will but study and consider light effects, whether from the light of the sun or from home photo lamps.

Obviously, there can be no rigid rules for selecting or arranging light effects, considering the infinite variety of picture subjects, often quite differently affected by similar light conditions. Getting the right effects depends upon how much sense of the artistic we possess, plus experience sitting up the picture chance.

But there is one general rule, and that is to seek contrast in the highlights and shadows that compose the outline, substance and background of the principal object of interest. At least we can avoid that cardinal sin of black and white photography—"flat" lighting.

THE GASOLINE TAX IS EASY REVENUE

Most persons know that when the gasoline tax was first imposed, it was levied upon the argument that as motor vehicles wear out the roads, it was only right that automobile owners should pay for highway maintenance. The tax at first was trifling, but so easily collected, it soon became an irresistible temptation whenever legislators were on the hunt for greater revenues.

In 1935 no fewer than 38 taxing authorities in the United States, and all of them in Canada that levied it, devoted this tax to other uses of bewildering variety. All over the continent this has become the general practice. All provinces of the Dominion use it to sweeten their general revenues. Necessity no doubt has forced their hand, but it is tough old car owners who are bearing a taxation on the merits grossly unfair to them, and simply because they own a car.

The taxing jurisdictions answer they are all doing it, and so what? This of course is true. In 1934 the general funds of 17 of the United States absorbed 46 per cent of these taxes and in 8 states the school got a generous slice of the money. Georgia is claimed to have diverted 90 per cent of her automobile tax money for roads. Massachusetts transferred $3,000,000 from her highway fund to her general fund and Delaware made big borrowings from hers for the same purpose.

CHAPTER XV.

Good intentions were one thing. Trying to reason with the madman at the wheel of Michael Fairbourne's car was utterly hopeless. Starr gave it up nearly as soon as he had entered her in the car, protesting still, hoping the car's purring noise would not wake up everybody in the place. Small chance that that, though. The figures served by the Dukes were as potent as any Peter Styuyevant had ever served to the Indians.

The black silhouette of Stephanie's house disappeared behind them. They whirled out of the tree-shaded driveway, into the highway and sped through the night. Starr did not know where.

As soon as she thought they had got to where they could talk freely, over and over she pleaded:

"No good can possibly come of this, Michael. We haven't the right to be setting so disgracefully. It's terrible! You're engaged to another girl, we were both guests in her home, and—"

"And you belong to another man," he sneered. "I get it, Starr. It's going to be a little tough on Lance. Starr winced. She had quite forgotten that she was still wearing Lance's bracelet. She had not taken it off during her preparations for bed. She had worn it deliberately, much as she might have worn a chain of servitude. Deliberately she had wanted to keep before her eyes the badge which must bolster her courage for any proposed step. . . . Vaguely she recalled one fleeting thought when she had poured the powders into the glass of water. . . . When they found her, wearing Lance's bracelet—What a touch of drama! Nobody would really know why. . . ."

Michael was going on inexorably: "You might as well make up your

the lonesome lights that pierced the dark and the loneliness. They were stopping before a house. Michael seemed to know where they were. It didn't matter.

Starr began hazily to understand when Michael roused up the sleepy justice of the peace who came to his door with a flash-light that showed his pajamas hanging loosely under a frayed dressing gown, and a hastily-donned, wrinkled shirt that was collarless. The main grinning knowledge. He might be sleepy, but this was something to which he was accustomed. He had been, ever since these small Westchester towns on the edge of the Connecticut line had become the Gretas Greens for New Yorkers, surprised to learn they could not get married in Greenwich or Stamford without having lived in either town five days.

Starr dozed some more on the hair-cloth sofa in the parlor of the justice of the peace, and Michael appeared to have some heavy business outside. . . . She heard words between the justice and Michael. . . . A nasal twang from the former. . . . "He won't mind—he used to it—I reckon a double saw-huck'll make him forget he's sleepy. . . . Yeah, he can make out the license all right. . . ."

Another interlude, when a buxom woman, hastily dressed, came into the room, her eyes soft, filled with thoughts of romance that probably was gone from her forever. . . . A bouquet of half-withered golden glow in her fat hands—the last flowers of the season.

"I thought you'd ought to have just a few posies anyhow, dear. . . . I always say it don't seem like a wedding without flowers. . . . You want to powder your nose? Anything? I'm going to be your witness. . . . A delighted laugh. "I always say there's nothing like being married to a justice of the peace—there's always so much excitement—so unexpected." Starr hardly heard the woman. She felt dazed, staring at the golden glow when the woman bustled away. . . . Flowers! For her wedding! Her nightmare wedding that fitted in with the rest of her life!

Medal For Dr. Dafoe

Is Honored For Outstanding Service

To Children Everywhere

To Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, physician to the Dionne quintuplets, went the 1937 medal for outstanding service to children. Parents magazine of New York, announced Dr. Walter Damrosch won the medal last year for his music appreciation broadcasts.

In making the award to the little country doctor of Callander, Ont., George J. Hecht, publisher of the magazine said: "To be the first to keep quintuplets alive, and to bring them to optimum health and vigor, is recognized by us as an outstanding achievement and one for which Dr. Dafoe deserves the widespread recognition which it has. But of even greater significance is the fact that Dr. Dafoe, by his successful demonstration with the quintuplets, has taught mothers everywhere the vital importance of following up-to-date, scientific methods in safe-guarding the health of infants and children."

India Selling Diamonds

Princes And Wealthy Families Take

Advantage Of High Prices

Diamonds which for many years have formed part of the collections of ruling princes and wealthy Indian families are fast passing into the hands of dealers and treasure collectors in Europe. During the last four or five months about Rs. 2,000,000 worth are believed to have been exported to London, Paris and Antwerp. Most of India's requirements of the precious stones are supplied by Belgium. As a rule diamonds are not exported from that country, but at present Indian owners are tempted to part with their possessions on account of the high prices which diamonds weighing from eight to ten carats bring in Europe. While large size diamonds are finding their way back to Europe, the demand for smaller stones continues unabated in India.—Brandon Sun.

Wants Coronation Dollar

Mrs. Grace Black, member of parliament for the Yukon, will sponsor a resolution in the House of Commons urging the government to coin 1,000,000 silver dollars as a memento of the coronation of King George VI. Mrs. Black believed the coins will be kept as souvenirs, will thus help the national credit, while the minting of such a large issue would prove immense aid to the silver mining industry of Canada.

The Duke Of Kent

Greatly Resembles His Grandmother

The Late Queen Alexandra

The Archbishop of Canterbury recently described King George VI. as inheriting more of his father's characteristics than his brothers. It might be said of the Duke of Kent, who is now 31, that he has developed the greatest likeness among the four royal brothers to his grandmother, the late Queen Alexandra. The resemblance is noticeable not only in features, but in tastes. He has the late Queen-Mother's love of music, and inherits also her gifts as a letter-writer. His private correspondence has the wit, charm, and felicitous phrasing of a practised litterateur.

The best conductor of heat is gold.

A FARMER BOY

ONE of the best known medical men in the United States was Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, New York, who was born on a farm in Pa. He noted daily in his medical career that many of his prescriptions were from rural folk, and he began to collect rural folk's prescriptions. He collected a clinic and hospital in Buffalo, and he collected a clinic and hospital in Buffalo.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a natural extract which cures diseases from the intestines and tones up the digestive system. Pimples and skin eruptions caused by faulty elimination disappear and you feel the tonic and strengthening effects. This well-titled medicine. Ask your Druggist now! Tablets 9 cents, fluid $1.00 and $1.25.

Little Helps For This Week

The Lord will perfect that which concerneth me; Thy mercy O Lord endureth forever, forsake not the works of Thine own hands. Psalm 138:8.

As God leads me I will go, Nor choose my way; Let Him choose the joy or woe Of every day. They cannot hurt my soul, Because in His control; I leave to Him the whole, As His children may.

Why is it that we are so busy with the future? It is not our province, and is it not a criminal interference with Him to whom it belongs to attempt to dispose of it, or to fill it with our wild imaginations? To do God's will as it is made known to us, to find out what He requires of us, and to leave every interest in His control with a cheerful trust that the path He marks out for us leads to our perfection, this is our duty and happiness. Why will we not wait in the plain simple way?

New Variety Of Pear

J. Lubinski has developed what may prove to be a new variety of pear. Nine years ago Lubinski found a seedling growing by the roadside and transplanted it to his own garden in Vancouver where it matured and has since yielded pears of a pound or more each. One picking of 80 pears weighed 100 pounds.

"Well, what did our eminent statesman have to say?" asked the editor. "Nothing," replied the reporter. "Very well. Keep it down to a column."
